

Nexdoo

Concept: A platform where users can find or host house parties.

Joining communities as an alternative to usual dating apps is becoming the new way of meeting people. Timeleft and running clubs' are becoming a trend that avoids the awkward and tiring process of meeting new people through tinder.

Our app is set to give people what they are looking for, a gathering where expectancies meet the outcome. The goal is for users to find exactly what they are looking for: a house party, a pre drinking, a small gathering, a dinner, any event where they are sure that the other attendees have the same taste as them.

With profiles rich in detail, we can use that information to recommend users what they'll probably like the most.

The Events will have statistics about the group (ex: 90% likes Pop, 85% Speaks Portuguese, 60% Female) so that everyone knows what to expect.

This serves as a new way to meet people, an alternative way to go out and even a new way to make money.

Business Model: Engaging with the brand should translate into value

If you're a user (a party person) you want to go to the party that is the right fit for you. You'll research parties around you and apply filters like type of gathering, price, party vibe. You'll be able to check invitees' stats like gender distribution, compatibility match or even how many people like the same hobbies/topics you do. Then, you'll apply to the party and wait to be accepted. In the mean time, you can check other parties and apply. Once accepted, you'll join the whatsapp group (until we have inapp chat) and gather the last details about the party like the exact meeting location.

As a host, you're usually the party maker. Maybe you want to make a few extra bucks by organizing a party in your parents garage, or simply invite new people to join a pre drinking with your friends since you have the house all to yourself. You may even be a dj or a singer, looking to throw a party just to share your music with others.

2 ways of making money:

With a subscription, you'll get access to the compatibility stats, getting to check the profiles of who's coming to the party, pre-apply to parties so you don't miss out. Apply and host as many parties as you want.

Or

You buy (something, like keys) to access such features. If one key allows you to apply to one party, one keyhole could allow you to throw one party. Or the something works for both.

Having something that users can buy and keep on their accounts will also serve as an exchange product for us to trade for free marketing (like sharing in socials) or to sell merchandising. It can also serve to gamify the concept by creating contests before or even during the parties. Rankings like “countries’ best host” or “biggest partier around” can also contribute for an engaging community.

Free version/MVP Features:

- “Let party” tab: A combined feed with party listings and integrated search and filters.
- “Lets host a party” tab: the go to place to create and post your party.
- A profile tab with your info and interests
- Social media profile verification

For the future (not necessarily by this order):

Compatibility algorithm

More than one profile/party photo

Party/host reviews

Enhanced profile Verification

Paywalls

Let’s meet right now concept

Accounts for groups of friends

In-app chat

In-app drinking games

Other general takes:

-Not bumble, not tinder we are “our name”. Meet new people. Party. No awkwardness. No more failed dates.

-The brand should be hell of merchandisable. Hosting a party with our sweater on should look cool. Receiving a doormat with our logo on it should make hosts happy. Sharing a video on socials playing beer pong with our brand's cups should be recognizable.

-It can and should be a worldwide app...with a worldwide understandable brand.
